

sinking of the American schooner Lyman M. Law by a submarine. Particularly important, in view of officials here is official information whether the U-boat was Austrian or German.

The information transmitted to Tredwell from the British consul at Cagliari was that the submarine stood off while the Law's crew of ten—eight of them Americans—took to the lifeboats.

The schooner carried no contraband, she left port before the submarine was promulgated, was not equipped with wireless, and knew nothing of the submarine menace.

HONOR MEMORY OF HEROES OF MAINE

Memorial Exercises Held at Fort Myer on Anniversary of Tragedy.

After paying tribute to the memory of the sailors who perished with the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, nineteen years ago today, speakers at the memorial exercises held at Fort Myer emphasized the fact that this is the time for Americans, irrespective of politics, race or creed, to stand together.

In the course of their patriotic addresses, Congressman L. C. Dyer of Missouri, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Byron S. Newton, and officers of the Spanish War Veterans and Grand Army of the Republic, urged that the valor and heroism of the victims of the Maine be emulated throughout the nation today.

Cuban Envoy Adds Tribute.

Among the speakers at the impressive memorial services held in the riding hall at Fort Myer was Senator Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, envoy extraordinary from Cuba, who paid glowing tribute to the sailors who went down with the Maine, and to the United States.

Sacred and patriotic music was played by the band from the United States ship Dolphin at intervals during the ceremonies. The presentation of the colors by the color guard of the Dolphin provoked prolonged applause, a spontaneous outburst of patriotism over the appearance of the flag, which was followed by "The Star-Spangled Banner" by the band.

Salute for Maine's Dead.

Several hundred Spanish War Veterans, members of the G. A. R., and other patriotic organizations, together with hundreds of women, attended the exercises. Three volleys were fired by sailors from the Dolphin as a salute to the dead sailors sleeping in Arlington under the shadow of the mast of the ship on which they served. Following the volley "Taps" was impressively sounded by a bugler from the Dolphin.

YOU HAVE TO BE 'PSYCHED' TO KNOW

That's the Way It Seemed At the Drama League's Playhouse.

COOK-GLASPELL PLAY GIVEN

Idea Both Disclosed and Exposed in Presentation of "Suppressed Desires."

How was any poor pawn of fate, any such little toy of the big cosmic forces as a newspaper reporter, to know that because Mabel dreamed she was a hen and she loved a man named Eggleston, which is superfluous for "egg," and she had once misread Stephen into "step hen," and Henrietta's first syllable was "hen," and if you wanted to delve that far, Stephen's entire name really could have been "step hen" B. Rooster (phonetic for rooster), that she was impelled by a subliminal compulsion away from her own husband straight into the arms of Henrietta's husband, with his barnyard destiny?

You couldn't, of course, unless you had been "psyched," and then maybe Henrietta wasn't sorry she had not kept quiet about the higher thought, because she had to throw away her Freud and Jung, and recant before Stephen Brewster would take her back.

Disclosed by Drama League.

The Drama League disclosed this last night, and sought to expose it, too, in the much discussed play, "Suppressed Desires," by George Cram Cook and Susan Glaspell. Those who just won't think for themselves had the theories of Freud and Jung exploited in dramatic form, and deliciously satirized at the same time.

The audience was as complex as the subject, with Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the District Supreme Court; Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor; George F. Bowerman, librarian at the Public Library; society women and debutantes, and earnest young students of drama and life (with a capital L), and high school pupils, and one newspaper reporter, who scurried about asking, "Is this thing a serious matter?"

Cast of Play.

John B. Tuttle was Stephen, distracted by having every action scrutinized and awakened from his sleep by queries of what he was dreaming about; Margaret Caldwell Lancaster was a charming and winsome Mabel married to a dentist and only happy because she "found herself," and Henrietta Brewster, uncanny and analytic, was impersonated by Kathryn Hitchcock.

The scene was in the apartment of the Brewsters, off Washington square. The play was produced by Bertram Bloch, the scenery constructed by Kennedy Meek and George Maynard; the lighting was by Samuel Isler and L. Shapiro. Miss Elsie A. Lancaster was director, and the scene was designed by Maurice Maxwell.

"Suppressed Desires" was only one of three plays given last night. The first was "Cathleen ni Houlihan" by William Butler Yeats. It was a mystic sketch of Ireland in the days of the rebellion of 1798, with Cathleen,

WIFE TO BE NEAR AS WILSON TAKES OATH

Another Precedent to Be Set
When President Is Sworn
In March 5.

Chairman Harper reiterated that the event would be more memorable than ever, and on as pretentious a scale as could be hoped for.

Record Crowd Expected.

Chairman Harper said: "We are preparing for one of the largest crowds that ever came to Washington. The reports received from the railroads all over the country show that a mammoth throng will congregate here to witness the inauguration."

Feature of Evening.

A feature of the evening's performance was an experiment in using the same background, with the properties changed each time, to typify the interior of a peasant home of a century ago, a portiere and a picture, and an ultra modern studio of the Greenwich village region.

SUFFS DEFY ELEMENTS

White House Picketers Pay Tribute to Susan B. Anthony.

Instead of shivering suffragists at the White House gates today, there appeared the regular quota of a dozen young women garbed in slickers and rubber helmets smilingly trying to battle with the mixture of hail, rain, and snow on the weather menu.

Susan B. Anthony day is being celebrated, and while the disagreeable weather prevents the big demonstration planned by the Congressional Union, if the weather clears this afternoon the organization plans to double the White House squad.

The pickets today carried three new banners, bearing extracts from suffrage speeches made by Susan B. Anthony in Washington in civil war days. This afternoon a reception will be held at the "little White House" to pay tribute to the memory of the pioneer suffrage leader, and tonight a Susan B. Anthony dinner will be held at Cameron House.

GERARD THANKS GERMANS

Envoy Quoted as Praising Country on Departure.

BERLIN (via Sayville wireless), Feb. 15.—"Ambassador Gerard when leaving German soil asked the accompanying German representatives to transmit his thanks to the German government," said the semi-official news agency today.

"The regulations of the German government surpass everything we might have hoped for, the embassy and the colony," the ambassador was quoted as saying. "German hospitality and chivalrousness brilliantly stood the test during these hard days."

MISSIONARY MASS MEETING.

A missionary mass meeting, under the auspices of the archdeaconry of Washington will be held tonight in Epiphany Church. Its purpose is to make wider known what the Episcopal Church is accomplishing through its missionaries about the world. Bishop Harding will deliver the address of welcome, and the introductions will be made by the Very Rev. Dr. Randolph H. McKim. The Right Rev. St. George Tucker, Bishop of Kyoto, Japan, will be the principal speaker.

Pain, Pain, Pain Stop Neuralgia

Rub nerve torture, pain and misery right out with
"St. Jacobs Oil."

You are to be pitied—but remember that neuralgia torture and pain is the easiest thing in the world to stop. Please don't continue to suffer; it's so needless. Get from your druggist the small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Oil," pour a little in your hand and gently rub the "tender nerve" or sore spot and instantly—yes, immediately—all pain, ache and soreness is gone. "St. Jacobs Oil" conquers pain—it is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin. Nothing else gives relief so quickly. It never fails to stop neuralgia pain instantly, whether in the face, head or any part of the body. Don't suffer!—Adv.
